2013 VISIONS:
PERSPECTIVES & INSIGHTS FROM THE LCN

As the 2012 threshold has been crossed, many of us are feeling and experiencing many energy systems, information and intelligences from myriads of sources. For some it is religious reinforcement, others it's our galactic neighbors or simply a potent feeling of change and evolution with accompanying uncertainty.

I would like to present food for thought.

For quite some time human beings have undertaken the process of evolving through the help and utilisation of external influences – whether this be ritualistic practices, governments, ascended masters, angels, gurus, or science. These are all unique and wonderful experiences. Now, consider that there is one source that gets over remember that within yourself is where the infinite lies, where knowledge exists, within yourself is where all these external concepts lie, and also within yourself at a much broader perspective you understand that they do not even come close to your own inner light and being.

Imagine journeying through the night alone in nature with your own torch, experiencing the highs and lows of the trip -what lessons will be missed if you called on someone or something to blast a spotlight through your journey!

All that is and all that you are is within.

Alyshane Pooloo.

2012 Has Passed Away....

And we are still here! The doomsayer's predictions of the world ending, a rapture of the chosen and the ending of the Mayan calendar of time have left us all in the same living state as we were before.... or have they?

Is this the dawning of a new age of consciousness? The time in which our thoughts, emotions and beliefs manifest in moments, as opposed to years? Is this the age in which these inner beliefs, thoughts and their emotions become apparent to us in a vivid inner light?

The answers to these and many other questions are yet to be revealed; and they will be revealed to each of us individually.... when we search inwardly for them.

2013 will be a blessing for all of us! Holding gratitude in our hearts will only bring us more experiences for us to be grateful for! As we enter this New Year, age and cycle of time, we have some exciting new happenings to share with all of you.

Let's get personal and begin with me. In fact, let's start with my birthday. Birthdays--aren't they great? A wonderful time to get together with friends, family over double chocolate cake and, hopefully, many presents. Since my last birthday was 12-21-12, a date when the Mayan Calendar ended and the forecasting of the end of the world...well, just my luck. As that eventful day came and went, however, some people were actually surprised our universe was still here on December 22nd. Many sighs of relief could be heard throughout the cosmos on that day. Life went on as usual—or did it?

Since mid-December, I have seen numerous subtle and some not-so-subtle changes. My intuitive skills are amplified. "Visits" from the other side have increased from approximately two to three a year to that many in just one week, including some new spirits. I've had "visions" occur during waking consciousness instead of during deep meditation or in a dream state. It's not just me, many friends have reported similar changes as well.

I believe an energetic shift is occurring that allows some to venture into areas not previously experienced. As 2013 progresses, more people will awaken to the synchronicities all around us; more people will search for true meaning in their lives. As groups of people awaken within this evolutionary process, they will seek new paths.

I see the LCN expanding in ways we did not dream possible. This new energy has breathed life into the LCN and she is undergoing a metamorphosis. As she absorbs this new energy, her life force is expanding and growing, to be of service to humanity, to meet the needs of those seeking answers. As people are reaching out, searching, the LCN's "virtual presence" across the continents becomes a guidepost for these new explorers in their new journey of self-discovery. Coming full circle, I envision the LCN as the life force, the embodiment and the manifestation of one of Bob Monroe's final edicts to "get it out there!"

I hold a vision that in 2013 the number of TMI Local Chapters will double. I can see that the gentle ripple of consciousness seekers has already begun growing into a huge wave that is sweeping the world. I see it locally in our own chapter that has grown exponentially because people are hungry to awaken, eager to connect with people of like mind, so happy to find people who understand the experiences they "can't quite find language for but recognize the vibration when they find us". And I know with certainty that what is happening in our small part of the globe is occurring all over this planet and gaining momentum.

We are more than local chapters - we are conversations. We hold space for people on their individual journeys as they explore, seek, ask, understand and ponder in amazement and awe. We are a pivot point a place where people, whether wandering through or looking for a place to hang their cosmic hat, can gather around a mutual goal of awakening to who we truly are. The ripple is building the wave is coming! Welcome 2013!

Near the end of 2012 it felt to me that the energies were block and restricted. I felt sure that come 2013, there would be a release and once again the energies would be “free flowing”.

It felt to me that 2013 would be a year, where things that had been “put off” could now be completed with ease and that it would be a year of many “completions” for many individuals. I felt it to be a year of tapping into the infinite void within to find answers, knowledge and to gain new perceptions, a year of immense personal growth. With those thoughts, I greeted the new year with excitement and joyful anticipation, and I look forward to continuing my own personal growth and to be of assistance to others if I am meant to, who may come my way.

The members of the LCN have a great opportunity to be the change as they get to encounter many who are seeking and looking for answers.

To all of you, I say Happy New Year and may 2013 be an amazing year of discoveries for each of you.
